SYNOPSIS:

'Gabo, The Magic of Reality' is a story about the incredible power of human imagination, which follows the interwoven threads of Gabriel García Márquez's life and work.

How could a child from a lost town in Colombia win the hearts of millions, from the poorest to the most powerful? How did you make your works change our perception of reality? The answer is the incredible story of Gabriel García Márquez, 1982 Nobel Prize for Literature, author of the acclaimed and world-famous masterpiece "Cien años de soledad", which grew up in poverty and violence in northern Colombia and, Driven by love of life and a magical and sensual sensibility, followed a path that led not only to a pioneering literature that affirms life, but to the vanguard of the political struggles of the 1970s and 1980s through its Militant journalism and his friendship with political leaders like Fidel Castro and Bill Clinton.

A film about the incredible power of imagination, which follows the interwoven threads of life and the work of Gabriel García Márquez - 'Gabo' for all Latin America- with the narrative tension of an investigation.
